

As a worshiper/Paladin of Pelor: You might want to consider some exhortation or verbal recitations that encourage your allies, convince enemies to surrender or submit, or break the spirit of an enemy who's attack is powerful. Here's a few phrases you might want to use (role-play) under certain conditions:

When healing an ally:

"Through Pelor's grace, be healed. If your belief were greater, how much greater would the relief from your wounds be?"

When smiting your enemies:

"When you cross me, you cross the great god Pelor and earn his wrath, and the wrath of all his disciples!"

"... as Pelor's grace demands."

"... just as Pelor sweeps aside foes."

"... so that Pelor may smile upon us."

"... in Pelor's name, let it be so."

"... in this we ask Pelor's aid."

"... and in so doing we will be instruments of Pelor's peace."

"... and in this we shall have Pelor's divine aid."

"... for behold, Pelor has smiled on us from the very beginning." "... and may all sin in Pelor's eyes be washed from our souls, so that our purposes are pure."

Here are numerous phrases I found online. I did a bit of editing as some were crude, poorly worded or downright stupid. Some are puns. I left those in just in case you wanted to bring a bit of levity to your character/the table.

"Praise the sun!"

"The dawn has arrived!"

"First light approaches!"

"Feel the sun's glory!"

"Smite makes right!"

"Pelor, we give thanks for this blessing my opponent is about to receive."

"I grant you the sun's rays to bring you out of the shadows!"

"Eat My Blessing!"

"Evil cannot hide from Pelor's Light!"

"In the name of Pelor, I cast out the Darkness!"

"It is not my place to judge you. That would be hubris, the sin of pride. My duty is to humbly send you to the One who shall." <draws sword>

<while hacking and slashing through the battlefield> "Know that I take no pleasure in this..."

<as a foe falls> "I forgive you."

<moves on to fell another> "Be at peace."

<and another> "May your next life be better than this."

"Rejoice, for your redemption is at hand." <draws greatsword>

"Your soul can still be saved, if, like a surgeon, I cut away all that is diseased." <pause, tilts head while detecting evil>

"Your pacts with fell powers come at a terrible price, and I, like an unwelcome taxman, am here to collect the balance due."

"The only coin that can repay your terrible deeds is forged in steel and annointed in the blood of the wicked. I have it here in my hand."

"The Dialogues of Anachritius are quite clear on the punishments for your crimes. While you deserve much worse, I am admonished to make your death as clean, swift and painless as possible. Forgive me if I am not entirely successful..."

"I cannot allow your evil to continue. Please don't do this. You have the power to end your evil without bloodshed. draw sword I don't."

"The pain of your flesh is fleeting, but the light of your soul will shine forever. Trust in the Light and be not afraid!"

"Lux" as a joyous exclamation and "Umbra", "Noctis" and "Tenebrae" for swears.

"Let there be light!" should be your one liner of choice before unleashing a spell or ability that turns the tables.